ABOUT THE PATTERN

This cardigan stands out for its remarkable lightness and yarn economy. It was specially created to welcome spring and bid farewell to colder days, or to accompany you on nighttime walks on the beach with a gentle sea breeze.

The summertime design begins with a provisional cast-on knit top-down and seamless so the length can be adjusted as needed. It features a beautiful lace pattern that adorns the body and sleeves, complemented by an elegant crocheted chain, giving this cardigan a unique distinction.

PATTERN NOTES

Note 1: Before starting your project, make a swatch to ensure you are getting the right gauge and that your sweater will come out to the correct final measurements. If you have more stitches per inch than indicated, your tension is tighter, and you must go up a needle size or two. If you have fewer stitches per inch than indicated, your tension is looser, and you need to go down a needle size or two.

If you changed the size of your main needles to obtain gauge, you also have to change the needle sizes of your ribbing needles to 1 time a smaller size respectively.

Note 3: For the Body, rows are worked flat, and for the sleeves, rounds are worked in the round.

Note 4: The text in light purple indicates video links.

SCHEMATIC

To measure armhole depth, place your tape measure at the highest part of the shoulder (where the shoulder bone protrudes) and measure to the underarm. Place the tape measure under both underarms to calculate the bust circumference. When choosing your size, I recommend that you decide it based on the bust circumference. If you find that the size you selected has a very deep armhole depth, you can adjust it by working the instructions for size with the armhole depth measurements closer to your preferences. Working with different instructions for the armhole depth will also require working the neckline shaping and sleeves to the new instructions.

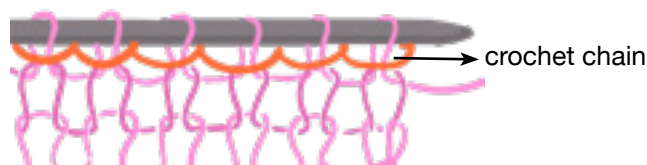

SPECIAL TECHNIQUES

Provisional Cast On

A provisional cast-on is a temporary cast-on method that holds live stitches to be knitted later. Designed to be removable, cast on using waste yarn. I recommend using a smooth, firm, contrasting-colored yarn that is easy to see and unzip from your live stitches.

Make a chain with crochet hook:

Create a slip knot on a crochet hook with CC. Without removing the live stitches from the needle, put the hook between two live knit stitches from the front to the back. Bring the hook behind the next knit stitch and back through from back to front between the next knit stitch on the left. Loop yarn around hook and pull yarn back between stitches with hook. Slip lower loop over new loop. Repeat to end of row.
